portance to the people, and, therefore, the fervor which accompanies a trial at something new was manifest in them. The Cuban people are passionate, the Americans certainly cannot expect elections for the President of a republic to be carried on with death-like stillness and funereal simplicity." "What do you think, generally, of the affray?" the minister was asked.

No Serious Aspect.

"That which took place Friday in different sections of Cuba has not as sumed, nor does it promise to assume Very serious proportions," replied Mr. Quesada. "It is one of those riots in-cident to almost all elections in every country. For this reason not too much importance should be attached to the occurrence, especially as it is absolutely

The elections held yesterday were for the boards of register. This is a prelimi-nary arrangement for the general elections, which will take place December 1 "As to what is said regarding the possibility of military intervention by the United States in being ready to quell all disturbances, I should say that the proposition is an extraordinary one. ### America's Hands Off.

It is said by a trustworthy authority that the United States will not send military and naval forces to Cuba until President Roosevelt thinks that the Cuban government can no longer cope with the situation. The belief is strong, nowever, that no crisis is apt to arise in Cuba to warrant the intervention of the American Government. A general state of disorder will hardly take place, as positive means are ready to check and suppress it before it could gain much headway.

Colonel Villuendas, the man killed in Friday affray in Cienfuegos, was thirty years old. He fought with distinction in the last revolution against Spain, serving under Gen. Maximo mez. He went to Cuba at the time of the insurrection in a filibustering expedition from the United States, led by Gen. Juan Ruz.

Brother Killed.

A brother of Colonel Villuendas was killed in the revolution. Another brother is a member from Santiago province of the lower house of congress. Colonel Villuendas represented a Havana districi. He was an able lawyer, and a forcible speaker. Colonel Villuendar, formerly a friend of President Palma, later became one of the strongest advocates of the election of Gen. Jose Miguel Gomez, the liberai candidate for the Presidency, and gov-ernor of Santa Cara. The congressman was also a liberal, and only a few weeks ago wrote to a friend in this city the sangaine prediction that General Gomez would be elected.

In 1904 Colonel Villuendas visited the St. Louis Exposition, and remained for several weeks in New York.

WASHINGTON WANTS POLITICAL MEETINGS

Becomes Candidate for National Convention.

WILL BUILD AUDITORIUM

Commissioner West to Name Committee to Collect Half a Million Dollars.

Why not some of the great national political conventions of 1908 in Washington?

Every other sort of convention comes but if there has been a real national political gathering in the Capital City the memory of the oldest inhabiant does not recall it.

Other cities present their claims, send their commissioners before the political committees, offer their inducements, and get the prizes. Kansas City handled a great convention five years ago, and did it well; yet with the single exception that Kansas City has a splendid convention hall, that city cannot compare facilities with Washington.

In recent years, it is true, the disposition has been to take the conventions to the cities of the Central Valicy; but in 1900 the Republicans ventured away from this rule and went to Phil adelphia, where they nominated a winning candidate

Far Ahead of Other Cities.

No other city has the attractions for sightseers, especially those interested in politics, that Washington offers. And so, realizing its capital of induce ments, Washington is going to get into the running and undertake to make itself a serious candidate for some of these great affairs.

All that is needed is a proper convention auditorium, and for this, a movement, backed by new energy, is to be set afoot at once. This is the announcement made yesterday by Commissione West, head of the auditorium movement. He is now preparing to announce a strong committee, which will be in trusted with the effort to raise from $500,000 to $1,000,000 for a proper hall to accommodate not only great, but small-Mr. West said:

Finance Committee.

"I have under way now the appoint-ment of a large finance committee composed of the prominent business men and representatives from every profession in the city, which I will an nounce in a short time.

"This committee will have in charge the raising of from a half to a million dollars which will be spent for the erection of the convention hall. $130,600 has already been subscribed, which was given by citizens when the idea of bringing the government building at St. Louis to this city, was under consideration, and re-erecting it here on a lot. The St. Louis government building has been abandoned," continued Mr. West, "for many reasons. We want a building here that will not have to be rebuilt, but will be fresh and will be ing view and beauty, but within the adapted to the wants of the city and it will necessarily be better fitted to our wants. This committee, when it is named, will go to work with vim and trust. viger and I have no doubt that the amount required for the erection of the building will be secured and Washington will, in a short time, have as handsome a convention hall as there is in the large publishing establishment. 'All told, the speakers' bureau em ployed over 1,500 men. Their pay ranged from $25 a week up. Of course, this does not include men of Cabinet size, who were paid nothing for their speeches, but the committee did have to pay a considerable sum for their traveling and hotel expenses. We held 700 or 800 meetings a night, and Mr. Hanna used to keep his eye on every one of them. I know that bureau cost more than $360,000, but not as much as $400,000

When asked if Congress would be approached for help in the matter Mr. West said he thought not. In his opinion to have the half independant of the National Accordance on the sleep of the 2sth Sun, Sturgeon Moon, proving such a decided success, it was determined to hold another in the near future on a larger scale.

"The work of the other bureaus was not especially expensive. In the for-eign bureau, for example, we employed only one translator for each language, and that enabled us to reach the voters of fourteen or fifteen different nationalities.

"You must add to the cost of these bureaus the cost of maintaining headquarters. There were over 600 clerks in the New York office alone. What we regarded as organization expenses-the making of polls, aid to State committees, the dispatch of speakers on emergency demand and similar work-in 1896, cost $2,500,000.

Legitimate Expenses.

"Now these, as I regard them, are all legitimate expenses. If a cent of the money raised by Mr. Hanna and Mr. Bliss that record-breaking year was spent to buy votes, I did not know it, and I doubt if either of them knew it. funds which went to the State committees, and you have no idea how they can ed well. spend money in ways that are not only righteous but absolutely necessary. My home is a city of 300 election precincts. and it costs us for the ordinary and en-succeeding poll indicated that our cam-paign was gaining ground, but if the editors and special writers to run a election had been held at any time in KSeptember or October, it is my judgment, as it was Mr. McKinley's and Mr. Hanna's, that Bryan would have beaten us. We began, you know, by flooding the country with tariff literature. That was in August. Suddenly early in Sep-tember, we woke to the fact that nobody-cared two cents about the tariff. Everybody was talking silver. The whole plan of the campaign was changed over night, Mr. Hanna wired instructions to all the State committees to burn

SCHOOL OF LAW

FACULTY.

The 1900 we did not have nearly so hard a fight and we spent only about half as much money. I doubt if any officer at the national headquarters was seriously worried about the result at any time. The organization expenses were large, but not nearly as large as they had been four years earlier. Instead of 500 clerks at Chicago there were but 150, and instead of 1,500 speakers we had but 500.

This Fight Easier.

"Last year the fight was easier still. I do not think we spent more than a third as much as we spent in 1896. Mr. Cortelyou did not change our methods much. He saw to it that no pledges were given to obtain contributions, and he supervised, generally, the expenditure of the fund. Otherwise, he was not concerned actively in the handling of moncy, and I doubt if he knew much about it. His one innovation consisted in the purchase of advertising space in the newspapers and magazines. It worked well.

"What we will do if our funds are cut in half or otherwise lessened through a prohibition against contributions from corporations, no one can tell. Probably we will retrench all along the line.

a prohibition against contributions from corporations, no one can tell. Probaand it costs us for the ordinary and entirely honorable uses of election day over $10,000 every campaign. An allowance of $35 to each precinct for carriages, is surely not a great corruption fund. Yet that eats up more than $10,000 alone.

"We would not have spent so much in 1896 if we could have been satisfied at any time up to the last week that we look or education, at $1,000,000—and I do not the up to the last week that we look or education, at that."
